You may be so weary today that you don't see how you can keep moving forward. You have stood strong against the anxiety and stress, but you think: "I cannot handle this anymore." God knew at times the pressure could feel overwhelming, and the load would be too heavy. He is not faulting you for not being strong enough. He knows you are human and have your breaking points.

So, get ready for breakthrough. As you wait on the Lord, this is a new day. That weariness is coming to an end. There is going to be a supernatural power to lift the load and ease the struggle, and a new attitude that gives you a second wind so you can rise up and fulfill your purpose. You are about to start running. Running into your purpose. Running into opportunity. Running into great relationships. Running into good health. Running into freedom. Running into ease. Where it used to be a burden, so heavy, you will run and not be weary, outlast the opposition, overcome the adversity, and push through to the fullness of your destiny.

Isaiah 40:31 "But those who wait on the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings like eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint."
