

You have experienced some bad breaks, some closed doors, some people who used and abused you, but God hasn't forgotten about your hopes and dreams or the promises He's given you. Every time God opens His mighty hands, He sees your name and is reminded of you.

Life happens to all of us, but remember that it's only temporary. Stay in faith. God is aware of everything you are going through. Remain expectant. He is not only going to lift you back up, but He's going to take you to a higher place of blessing, and you are going to come out better than you were before.

Isaiah 49:16 "...See, I have engraved you on the palms of My hands..."
