

When troubles come your way, it's easy to get discouraged, but God uses difficulties and challenges to move you toward your pre-ordained destiny. You won't become all you were created to be without trouble. You don't grow in the good times; you grow in the tough times, the dark times. Trouble prepares you for the next level. Trouble develops something in you that you can't get when it's easy and everything is going your way. In the difficult times, your spiritual 'muscles' are developed, and you gain strength, endurance, and wisdom. Every challenge you have been through has deposited something in you. Through every relationship that didn't work out, through those times when someone wronged you, you gained insight. The times when you failed, you gained experience that will benefit you in the future. The truth is that trouble is all part of God's Divine Plan. Submit to that truth, and embrace it!

Proverbs 20:24 "...The LORD directs our steps, so why try to understand everything along the way?..."
