

There are times when God will allow you to go through a difficult season in your life so He can birth something new on the inside of you. If you go through something you don't understand, know that God allowed it to happen because He trusts you. He knows He can count on you to draw the same comfort, the same healing, and the same encouragement that helped you overcome the challenge, and in turn share it with others.

Can God trust you with pain, or will you get caught up wondering, "I don't understand why this is happening to me?" Remember, it's not all about you. For example, God will allow a difficulty so that three years down the road you can help somebody else move forward too. God is counting on you to let your light shine through in the dark places. What you have been through will help somebody else get through the same thing. Always be on the lookout for others you can encourage.

Matthew 5:16 "Don't hide your light! Let it shine for all; let your good deeds glow for all to see, so that they will praise your Heavenly Father."
