

Suppose you have just heard of someone whose financial debts have been miraculously cleared. Or your elated friend has just told you that despite being an average student in school, he / she scored straight As in all his / her subjects. Perhaps you heard how a newly-wed couple won an all-expenses-paid trip for two to Hawaii, or how a once-childless couple is now expecting their miracle child.

When you see or hear of others being blessed, do you ever wonder when it will be your turn? Or do you even find yourself saying: "Oh, he / she got blessed with the very thing that I have been praying for. There goes my blessing." Now, while Man's economy operates on the principle of shortage, God's economy does not operate in the same manner. So the next time somebody gets blessed, tell yourself: "I won't be disheartened. I won't be jealous. I am the next one to be blessed!" Always remember that God does not have to bless anyone at your expense, nor does He have to bless you at anyone's expense. We don't have to be jealous of each other. There is a portion that God gives to you which no man can touch, because it has your name on it - "A man can receive nothing unless it has been given to him from Heaven." (John 3:27)

Our God owns the whole Universe. He has contacts and blessings you do not even know of, and which are reserved just for you! There is more than enough for everybody with plenty of leftovers. In fact, you will not be able to take it all, because when the blessings start coming in, they will come in a net-breaking, boat-sinking style. You will need to call for your friends in the other boats to come and help you! (Luke 5:1-7) That is the kind of blessings that our God gives. So remain expectant, and get ready for your blessings and overflowing abundance!

Psalms 50:10 "For every beast of the forest is Mine, and the cattle on a thousand hills."
