

When God told Abraham: "I will bless you and you will be a blessing", it infers that if you are not going to be a blessing, you are not going to be blessed. The two are tied together. The Scripture says: "Give, and it will be given to you." If you are not giving away what God has given you, that blessing is not going to continue in the way it could. If you give away healing, then healing will keep coming back to you. If you want to stay free from the addiction, help somebody else get free. Keep giving away what God has given you.

If you let what God gives you flow through you, He'll keep giving it to you. It's tempting to think, "I received my blessing. Lord, thank You", but that is going to cause you to stagnate. If you are not giving anything away, nothing new is going to come. When you are always lifting people up, encouraging them, making them better, then blessings are always going to come to you.

Genesis 12:2 ""I will make you into a great nation, and I will bless you; I will make your name great, and you will be a blessing.""
