

Some of the things that God has planned for you in your future you wouldn't be able to handle if He gave them to you right now. He loves you too much to let that happen, and that is why He is developing your character, refining you, and maturing you.

That employer who gets on your nerves, who doesn't treat you correctly - you keep trying to pray him away. The reason he is not going away is that God is using him like sandpaper to rub the rough edges off you. As you keep doing the right thing, keeping your mouth closed, being respectful, being faithful to your responsibilities, that is doing a work in you. You couldn't develop your character without him.

You may not like it, but God won't allow a difficulty unless He is going to somehow use it for your good. This includes the closed doors you face, the frustrations, the delays. If you maintain the right attitude, everything that happens in your life will prepare you for the next level of your pre-ordained destiny in Christ.

Philippians 2:14 "In everything you do, stay away from complaining and arguing..."