

Sometimes religion tells us that God puts sicknesses on us to teach us something. God doesn't send sicknesses, afflictions, or addictions to teach you. Jesus said that if Earthly fathers give their children good things, "how much more will your Father in Heaven give good things to those who ask." What loving father would ever say: "I put this sickness on my child to teach him / her a lesson."?

As long as you think sickness comes from God, you are not going to have faith to get rid of it. You need to see every sickness, every illness, and every addiction as the work of the enemy. Don't say: "My cancer...my diabetes...my arthritis." etc. It is not yours. It doesn't belong to you. Your body is a temple of the Most High God. The Scripture says: "Resist the enemy, and he will flee from you." You need to resist it. Don't accept it as the norm. It may be there now, but it is in the process of leaving.

Matthew 7:11 "If you, then, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in Heaven give good gifts to those who ask Him!"
