

When God talks about debts, He is talking about the times when people hurt you and do you wrong. It's a debt because human nature says: "I was wronged. Now I want justice. You have to pay me back." But the mistake many people make is in trying to collect a debt that only God can pay. Your parents cannot pay you back for not providing a loving childhood. Your friends cannot pay you back for the pain they caused by something they said or did. Only God can truly pay you back.

If you spend your life trying to get from others what only God can give, it will ruin relationships. Your attitude should be: "God, I will not be bitter, trying to get people to give me what they don't have. You promised You would settle my cases and pay me back double for every injustice. I am leaving it up to You." When you see the person who did you wrong, stamp the account "Paid In Full" in your imagination. Forgive so that you can be free.

Matthew 6:12 "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors."
