

In Acts 24, the apostle Paul had an opportunity to share his faith with the Roman governor of Judea, a man named Felix, and his wife. Felix was a ruthless, immoral governor, and today's Scripture verse describes his reaction. He knew he needed to change. This was a window of grace. God was speaking to his heart, but Felix put off dealing with the conviction, and we don't know if that 'convenient' time ever came. Two years later, he was out of office and gone.

Are you waiting for a more convenient time, putting off dealing with a conviction or a change of attitude, delaying to take a step of faith, ignoring God's still, small voice? You don't know how long the window is going to be open. Don't keep making excuses. When you have the faith for it, that is the time to act. So when you hear His voice, step into the grace. Take advantage of the opportunity God is offering you to come up higher, and see His favour in greater ways.

Acts 24:25 "As Paul talked about righteousness, self-control and the judgement to come, Felix was afraid and said: "That's enough for now! You may leave. When I find it convenient, I will send for you."
