

In the darkness of night, Jesus came walking to His disciples across the stormy sea. Based on His word to “come”, Peter had the courage to walk on the water to Jesus. Imagine how amazed Peter was as he took step after step, looking at Jesus, doing the impossible. As long as Peter focused on what Jesus said, he was fine. However, when he started focusing on what he saw, he began to doubt and sink.

The same principle applies in life. If you stay focused on what you see, your circumstances, then the enemy can talk you out of your hopes and dreams. If you are focused on the bad medical report, or how you will never get out of debt, then you will be limited. You need to stay focused on what God says. When you focus on what He promises, you will ‘walk on water’. You will go places you could not go on your own. You will overcome obstacles that are much bigger. Remember, the winds and waves are a test. Don’t get distracted and start focusing on the negative, because Almighty God is so much bigger than any of your circumstances.

Matthew 14:30 “But when he saw the strong wind and the waves, he was terrified and began to sink. “Save me, Lord!” he shouted.”
