

As believers, we all have times in life when we get weary and don't feel like we can go on. We have prayed, and we have believed, but nothing has changed. Now the weight of what we are facing has left us exhausted. The good news is that God doesn't expect you to be strong all the time. He doesn't fault you for feeling weak and say: "What is wrong with you? Where is your faith?"

Today's Scripture verse makes it clear that when you feel overwhelmed and weak, Christ comes in with power and gives you special strength. Strength that you didn't acquire on your own. Strength to move forward when you should be stuck, strength to overcome the addiction, strength to outlast the opposition. It is the hands of God lifting you, empowering you, reenergizing you, causing you to run and not be weary, to walk and not faint. There is going to be a strength that is not natural, but supernatural. You are going to have a new passion to stand strong, to keep trying, to step up to a new level.

2 Corinthians 12:10 "That is why I take pleasure in my weaknesses, and in the insults, hardships, persecutions, and troubles that I suffer for Christ. For when I am weak, then I am strong."
