

In the book of Genesis, Joseph was betrayed by his brothers, sold into slavery, falsely accused of a crime, and put in prison. He endured 13 years of injustice and disappointments. However, he kept doing the right thing, until one day he was suddenly called out of the prison to interpret Pharaoh's dream, and subsequently made the Prime Minister of Egypt.

God wasn't asking Joseph to defeat his brothers, to escape his captors, to prove his innocence, or to break out of prison. God was simply asking him to outlast the opposition. All this had to happen for him to reach his destiny. God is not asking you to overcome some of the challenges you face that are unfair and seem to not be changing. He is just asking you to outlast them. When you have passed the test, the promotion will come looking for you, the healing will come, the right person will find you. It is all a part of His Plan, and is necessary to get you to your pre-ordained destiny in Christ.

Hebrews 10:36 "Patient endurance is what you need now, so that you will continue to do God's will. Then you will receive all that He has promised."
