

When the Israelites made their exodus from Egypt and God parted the waters of the Red Sea, imagine how strong that wind had to be to blow back the water and sustain it in a wall. It was incredibly loud, noisy, and chaotic. Families were running as fast as they could, feeling confused and panicked. In one sense, God sent a storm on top of another storm. They probably thought, "This cannot be God. Things are getting worse instead of better." They didn't know what God was up to until they got through it.

When you are in the middle of a miracle, sometimes it will feel chaotic. You may not hear angels playing harps and the Heavenly choirs singing. Your circumstances may be troubled, noisy, full of opposition. This is what faith is all about. We don't know what the future holds, but we do know who holds the future. Yes, there is uncertainty, but God controls the winds. He is keeping you from evil and harm. Trust Him between the walls of water.

Exodus 14:21-22 "Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and all that night the LORD drove the sea back with a strong east wind and turned it into dry land. The waters were divided, and the Israelites went through the sea on dry ground, with a wall of water on their right and on their left."
