

You may be consistently making decisions that honour God. You have stayed faithful in your marriage, made sacrifices for your children, been your best at your job, gone the extra mile to help others etc. You have done the right thing, but you haven't seen the dreams of your heart come to pass.

Your time is coming. God rewards faithfulness. He is about to do something unusual. Blessings are going to find you, the right people are going to track you down, healing is going to come knocking at your door, promotion that thrusts you to a new level etc. The problem you have struggled with for years is about to suddenly turn around. You are not going to have to make it happen - God is. So don't be impatient for God to act. Those dreams and promises He has placed in your heart are still on the schedule in your future. Sometimes the reason it is taking so long is that what God has for you is bigger than you have imagined. Therefore, He is getting you prepared to carry the weight of greater blessings.

1 Samuel 26:23 "The LORD rewards everyone for their righteousness and faithfulness."
