

Are there some situations in your life that you need to be patient about and leave alone? You are striving, trying to force something, living stressed, but nothing is changing. Come back to a place of peace. Give yourself permission to rest. This takes all the pressure off. Say “no” to the urgency that makes you feel like it is up to you to bring the rains, and to make everything happen.

No! God is in control. You keep honouring Him, being your best, and God will take care of those crops. He will bring the rains. He will bring the right people. He will open the right doors. He will turn your child around. He hasn't brought you this far to leave you. Those dry seasons are not going to stop your harvest. They are a distraction to try to steal your peace, to get you frustrated and impatient. Try a new strategy. Making everything work out is not your job. When your harvest is ready, all the forces of darkness cannot stop what God has for you. The reason it is taking longer is because your harvest is going to supersede what you have in mind.

James 5:7 “Consider the farmers who patiently wait for the rains in the Fall and in the Spring. They eagerly look for the valuable harvest to ripen.”
