

Life is too short for you to live striving to force doors of opportunity to open, trying to convince someone to like you and attempting to win their approval, or straining to manipulate a situation so you can win the upper hand. That is going to wear you out and waste your time. David recognized that his times were in God's hands. He was saying: "I am not going to be frustrated by delays, or sour when it is not working out the way I want, or discouraged because I am not as far along as I thought I would be. My God is in control."

Timing is critical. You need to realize that you can do the right thing, but if it is not the right time, it still won't work out. When it is not the right time, no matter how much you try, the door is not going to open. When you don't feel a peace about it, and when there is a sense of unrest in your soul and spirit, then you cannot make the wrong time into the right time. You need to come back to a place of peace and rest in God's hands.

Psalm 31:15 "But I am trusting You, O Lord. I said: 'You alone are my God; my times are in Your hands.'"
