

Moses had God's promise that he would deliver the nation of Israelite slaves from Pharaoh. But the Israelites were too discouraged through hard labour to listen, and Pharaoh refused. Moses' words were met with resistance, and he made the mistake of immediately talking defeat. He was on the verge of letting his negative environment change his identity from deliverer to defeated. Fortunately, God spoke to Moses and promised again that by signs and wonders He would bring the Israelites to freedom.

You may be in an environment now that contradicts what God promised you. That is because the circumstances look just the opposite of the dream He put in your heart. It is a test. The enemy would love for you to lose who you really are, and to see yourself as limited or a victim. You can let it change you, adapt to the environment, water down your dream, or you can say: "No! My environment doesn't dictate my identity. I know who I am. I am a child of the Most High God, and I will become all I was created to be."

Exodus 6:12 "But Moses said to the LORD: 'If the Israelites will not listen to me, why would Pharaoh listen to me, since I speak with faltering lips?'"
