

Sometimes God will assign you to difficult people, perhaps a negative workplace with co-workers who are difficult to get along with, who compromise, who take the easy way out, who play politics and backstab. You are not there by accident. God has you there to shine brightly. He is counting on you to be a good influence, to be grateful when they are complaining, to have integrity when they are compromising etc. He is counting on you to show mercy when they are judgemental, to see the best in people when they are jealous, critical, and finding fault.

Light has the greatest impact in darkness. If you are in the light all the time, you are not going to be that effective. Stop complaining about the dark and let your light shine. They didn't stop the blessing on your life. They are not keeping you from your potential. God has you there on purpose. He is going to bless you in that difficult place. You are going to be an example of His goodness. You are going to demonstrate a divine favour so that other people can see the hand of God on your life.

Matthew 5:14-16 "You are the world's light - a city on a hill, glowing in the night for all to see. Don't hide your light! Let it shine for all; let your good deeds glow for all to see, so that they will praise your Heavenly Father."
