

You don't just happen to be alive today on planet Earth. Before your parents ever breathed a breath, before they ever showed up, God already knew you and chose when you would live. This is your moment, your time. You have been equipped and empowered. He put His anointing on your life, His favour. You have the talent, the courage, the connections you need. Everything has been strategically thought out. You are not lacking. The obstacles you face are not too much for you. If you couldn't handle it, God wouldn't have put you here now. If the 'giants' were too big, you wouldn't be here. If the dream wasn't attainable, you wouldn't have breath.

After all God has done, handpicked you for such a time as this, and crowned you with His favour, don't go through life thinking you are ordinary. The circumstances in your life may not be good today, but your destiny has been carefully planned. The conditions are right for you to succeed, to flourish, to blossom, to accomplish dreams, to overcome obstacles, and to leave your mark. You are well able.

Psalms 139:13 "You made all the delicate, inner parts of my body and knit me together in my mother's womb."
